Screen and partition with Sedus viswall.

Top: The two panels are independently rotatable.

Bottom: Using several elements, it's easy to create different configurations.

Anyone wanting to combine open-plan office design with the need for confidentiality and distraction-free zones will find the perfect solution in "viswall". Each "viswall" is a two-panel screen consisting of fully rotating slats which stand on a sturdy base plate. Because the fabric-covered panels rotate, the elements are able to provide slight transparency, complete transparency or total visual protection. Thanks to the angled base plates, the modules can be positioned in a row, staggered or oriented in different directions. Design: speziell®
